METHOD OF STUDY: (for example, lectures, seminars, work placements)	A range of teaching methods is employed for different learning outcomes and contexts; the knowledge is acquired through a number of routes. These may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Weekday classes / coaching. • Group and one to one tutorials. • Practical workshops (Repertoire and choreography). • Collaborative peer projects. • Seminars focused on prescribed reading or learning assignments. • Video screenings and analysis. • Visits to the theatre or other performance events where available. • Rehearsals, performances and lectures with professional practitioners. • Independent research, reflection and presentation on set projects (small group or individual). • Self-led study.
Workload including number of contact hours with School staff and expected self-study:	This is a vocationally orientated course; therefore the number of contact hours exceed standard university courses. The course is divided into two stages (Year 1 and Year 2), each comprising modules to a total of 120 credits. One credit corresponds to approximately ten hours of 'learning time' (including all classes, self-led study and research). Therefore, obtaining 120 credits in an academic year requires 1,200 hours of overall learning time.
The overall methods of assessment for the Modules (for example exams, course work or practical assignments):	The course is a practical, vocational training course for dancers. This means that assessment is mostly of practical work both on a continuous basis and in formal assessment events. In addition, independent project and Contextual Studies work will be assessed both on a continuous and formal basis. Feedback from all assessments is given with written or verbal comments. In addition, students receive ongoing feedback in practical classes and through tutorials. Feedback from these sources combined with on-going self-assessment allows the student, in consultation with their tutor, to set regular learning targets. Achievement is assessed by a variety of methods in accordance with the learning outcomes of the modules specified for the relevant level.
The award students will receive on successful completion of their course:	Foundation Degree in Professional Dance and Performance, validated by the University of Kent.
